Session 8 God of Our Relationships

* Bible Passage Exodus 20:12-17

* We Honor God by Honoring Our Parents

God calls us to honor our parents in response to His redeeming love for us. The Hebrew word translated honor means to make weighty and carries a positive sense of giving respect in abundance. Because all human parents are sinful, they may be "worthy" of honor in varying degrees. But God does not call us to weigh our parents' worthiness and then decide whether or not to honor them. He calls us to honor them as a way of honoring Him, of recognizing His authority in our lives.

- 1) How is honoring your parents' authority more than merely obeying them?
- 2) Do you struggle to honor your parents? In what ways?

* We Honor God by Honoring Our Neighbors

- Do Not Murder: Murder is condemned as a sin because of the motive behind it and the way it disregards the inherent value of human life.
- Do Not Commit Adultery: This is rooted in God's original design for marriage. Adam and Eve together reflected the image of God in their relationship of trust and love.
- Do Not Steal: This command covers a wide range of dishonest practices birthed in a heart gripped by possessions instead of a heart that trusts in the One from whom all good things come. Stealing is not just robbing a bank or shoplifting in a store. There are many forms of theft, and all of them are a sin before God. All of them, of course, come from a covetous heart.
- Do Not Lie: Throughout the Old Testament, God expressed His hatred for lying and declared truthfulness to be a requirement for His people. Because He is a God who tells the truth, His people must also tell the truth—always.
- Do Not Covet: From the garden of Eden, we've seen the human trait of wanting what we cannot have and placing hope for ultimate satisfaction in people and things. Unlike many of the other commandments, the nature of coveting is one that cannot be seen on the outside. Much like the First Commandment, which commands us to worship God, coveting is something primarily in the heart. However, you can see the fruits of this sin within people's lives often being the source that leads to other sins.

* How we relate to others impacts our witness to those around us.

If we treat others poorly and with disrespect while claiming to be Christians, our witness to them will likely be a negative one. If our relationships, instead, are characterized by love and respect, then our witness will likely be better received. Our Christian beliefs ought to positively impact our relationships, and our relationships should positively contribute to our witness to those around us.

- 3) Why does Jesus connect murder to a hateful heart? What are some ways we express hatefulness with our words?
- 4) What are some examples of stealing non-monetary items that seem commonplace today? How should a Christian respond to these things?
- 5) What disciplines do I need to fill my life with to help me defeat covetousness and learn the real secret to contentment?
